

About Me

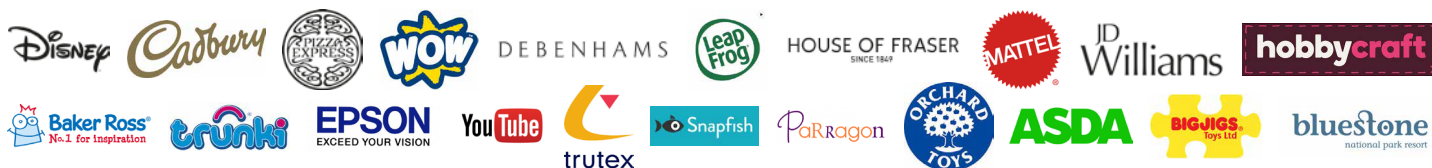

Twin Mummy and Daddy is a parenting, lifestyle and travel blog written by Emily. Emily lives in Cardiff, with her husband, Nigel and their twin girls, Ruby and Maisie who were born in February 2012.

Following the premature birth of their twins, Emily decided to start a blog as a continuation of her online diary on a fertility forum. The blog, Twin Mummy and Daddy was born on the 17th June 2012. Whilst on maternity leave, Emily blogged about her experiences of the IVF that she'd gone through with her husband in order to conceive their twins. Writing about their IVF and neonatal journey gave hope, advice and a friendly face to others who were in the same situation.

What started out as a way to document her IVF and neonatal journey, has now turned into a passion for the love of writing. Emily still writes about her family, but also includes reviews, days out, crafts and many other topics.
